Negroes Riot In Muskegon

MUSKEGON (AP)—Five persons were injured and 27 were arrested in a downtown melee early today after an estimated 1,500 persons, mostly Negroes, closed in around a police car answering a hotel trouble call.

Seventy police and sheriff's men, armed with riot guns and rifles, took control of an area in front of the Occidental Hotel, Muskegon's main hotel, and dispersed a mob. Officers split the crowd into three parts and moved each down a separate street.

A dance, attended by a predominantly Negro group, was being held at the hotel at the time. Following dispersal of the mob, a jewelry store was looted. Seven men were arrested and charged with burglary and possession of stolen property. The loot included an $875 diamond ring.

Detroit Negro Rejects GOP Nomination

Janitor Won't Run For Congress

DETROIT (AP)—Frank Daniels, a 39-year-old locker room attendant at Detroit's Eastern High School said today he does not choose to run for Congress in the November election.

But 13th Congressional (Detroit) District Republicans say Daniels is their candidate to oppose incumbent U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich. The district is heavily Democratic.

Daniels said he will not campaign and, if elected, will not serve. He said he prefers his $9,800 a year post at Eastern to the $30,000 a year congressional job.

"I don't know anything about politics," said Daniels. "I'm green at the job. I've got a lot to learn. I'm not capable of handling the job. Even if I'm elected, I will not take it."

Daniels, running in the Aug. 2 Republican primary polled 2,245 unofficial votes. Diggs got 21,661 in the Democratic primary.

Explaining his dilemma, Daniels said he feared last April that the Detroit Board of Education might not retain him during the summer.

Since he had circulated petitioning for Gov. George Romney in recent elections, Daniels thought he might wangle a summer job through Republican headquarters at the 13th District.

He was offered a job circulating petitions for GOP candidates. Later, a fellow worker suggested Daniels run for precinct delegate, so he began to circulate petitions for himself.

As the deadline for filing approached, another worker told Daniels to hustle downtown and file his petitions.

Daniels said he filled out some papers, and after leaving the Detroit City County (Wayne) Building, a GOP worker told him he was a candidate for Congress.

"I told him I didn't want to run, and I told him I wasn't going to campaign," said Daniels. "I still don't know how my name got into the race for Congress."

Born and educated in Moultrie, Ga., Daniels said he has always been a Republican. He said some day he would like to run for Congress, "when I'm ready for it and not before. I want to work from the bottom up."

Berlin Wall's 5th Year Hailed

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany celebrated today the fifth anniversary of the erection of the Berlin Wall, hailing it as a savior of the peace.

But West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt denounced the celebration as "perverse," and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard predicted that "the wall of shame" would tumble in ruins with the eventual reunification of Germany.

A parade through East Berlin by paramilitary units, a rally and a speech by Walter Ulbricht, head of the Communist government, topped the program for the celebration.

The Communists this year are drawing attention to the wall for the first time and claiming it represents a victory and a success for the Ulbricht regime.

Third Robbery Suspect Caught

The elusive third man wanted in connection with the June 27 armed robbery of the Bank River State Bank was arrested by FBI agents Friday night in a Panama City, Fla., motel.

Details of the arrest were sketchy this morning, but the fugitive was reported to be arraigned today before a U. S. Commissioner.

Held is Robert D. Ross, 35, of Reed City, Mich.

Ross was arrested previously in Superior, Wis., on June 28, but escaped from the Douglas County Jail with another inmate on July 4. The inmate was captured last month near Carthage, Mo.

Two other men wanted in connection with the robbery were also apprehended by Federal Bureau of Investigation men and are being held in custody of a Michigan U. S. Marshall for trial.

They are Clarence and Roy Waldo, both of Flint. They were picked up in a Portland, Ore., bus terminal Monday, July 26.

Arrest of Ross in Florida last night was made on a warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner John Erickson of Escanaba. Erickson said today he did not know whether or not Ross would be brought back to Escanaba to face charges.

The Waldo brothers were arrested on warrants issued by U. S. Commissioner Robert Bordenau of Marquette.

The three men were named after investigation by FBI agents, State Police and Sheriff's officers into the June 27 robbery when $33,648 was taken from the bank.

Two armed gunmen entered the bank shortly before the 3 p. m. closing time, forced cashier Loyal Hanson to open a safe and then locked Hanson and four women employees into a vault while they made their getaway.

The third man involved in the robbery was the driver of the getaway car and did not enter the bank.

Police picked up the trail near Flint, Wis., the next day and found the getaway car at a Merrill, Wis., airport where a man answering Ross' description had chartered a private plane to Superior, Wis., but escaped from jail by sawing his way through bars with his back saw blades which were believed to have been concealed in his shoes.

Panama City, a city of about 33,000, is located about 100 miles southeast of Panama, Fla., along the Gulf of Mexico.

Romney Starts Election Drive; Here On Friday

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney, who has vowed to wage his most energetic campaign, will officially open his reelection bid Wednesday and pump for votes the rest of the week.

The mid-August start—nearly three months before balloting—comes about three weeks earlier than Romney's 1964 campaign began to roll.

The governor did not campaign ahead of the August primary election, where he was re-nominated without opposition.

He has, however, made increasingly frequent appearances at public events and his recent speeches have increased in their political overtones.

Open Campaign
Romney will officially open his state campaign headquarters in Lansing Wednesday and his Detroit office will be dedicated Thursday.

The word "campaign" crops up in his weekly schedule for the first time this election year as the designation for a day in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties Thursday.

Release of the sketchy schedule was the only official word of the start of Romney's campaign. The governor has been at Mackinac Island since Wednesday.

Next Wednesday night Romney will visit district Republican conventions in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

At appearances before Oakland and Macomb conventions, Romney is particularly expected to try to stem any anti-organization moves by arch-conservatives, who opposed party regulars in the primary fight for convention delegates.

Escanaba Friday

On Friday and Saturday, the governor has a string of appearances in Escanaba, Petoskey, Boyne Mountain, Leelanau County, Benzie County, Chrysalis Downs and Interlochen.

Romney will address the traditional Governor's Luncheon of the U. P. State Fair at the House of Ludington on Friday noon and then will headline the grandstand show of the Fair in the afternoon.

Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the Democratic nominee for U. S. senator, is also expected at the Fair, with Sunday, Aug. 21 the closing day tentatively selected for his visit.

Romney's opponent, Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency, has been on the road for weeks, attacking the governor at every turn and accusing him of trying to take credit for measures approved by the Democratic-controlled Legislature.

The governor is expected to ignore Ferency as much as possible, realizing that the fiery attorney's biggest campaign problem is to make his name known.

Romney has not yet replied to Ferency's challenges to debate.

Beatles' Chicago Take Is $136,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Beatle fan shrieked their undiminished devotion through two ear-splitting concerts Friday, drowning out any idea of censure for the English quartet.

"We love you more than ever" read one sign hanging from the balcony of the International Amphitheatre where more than 26,000 fans watched the Beatles during the two sell-out performances.

It was the quartet's first stop on an American tour and its first appearance since publication of John Lennon's remarks that the Beatles "are more popular than Jesus" and that Christianity will go.

In Birmingham, Ala., the instigator of the Beatles ban, Tommy Charles, station WAQY's manager, called off the campaign because of Lennon's apology Thursday night.

Lennon told a news conference: "I'm sorry, I'm sorry I said it really. I never meant it as a lousy, antireligious thing."

The two Chicago performances grossed $136,000, said a spokesman for the sponsor.

No attempt was made to get through the solid line of police around the stage.

A first aid station attendant sent four hysterical girls to the hospital and attended to several others who fainted.

Several other acts preceded the Beatles, who bounded on stage, almost two hours after the show began, wearing dark green double-breasted suits and maroon shirts.

They sang less than a dozen songs, punctuated with winks and waves, each of which produced a noisy collective swoon, then frantic answering waves.

The quartet was scheduled to fly to Detroit today for their second concert.

Only in exceptional cases are arms issued to British police. Police were warned the killers probably would not hesitate to kill again. Investigators were warned not to work alone.

The victims, gunned down opposite a park where several children were playing, were riding in an unmarked car, used in patrol and undercover work.

A 10-year-old boy who witnessed the shooting told Scotland Yard officials a fat man with a black beard shot at one of the victims, chased him, knocked him to the ground and shot him.

"Then the man with the black beard got into the police car and drove over the man in the road. I ran away because I was frightened. As I ran I heard several more shots," the boy said.

The policemen had stopped their car near Wormwood Scrubbs Prison to question three or four men in a parked auto. Why they wanted to question the men may never be known.

"Only three men know the full story — and they are dead. But they must have had a reason," a Scotland Yard spokesman said.

Earlier, it was announced that a flight of U. S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs tangled with two Communist MIGs Friday.

Air Force and Navy pilots said eight Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles were fired at them, but a spokesman said there was no indication any hit the American planes.

Both of the MIGs and one of the Thunderchiefs were damaged in the four-minute air battle.

Inflation Rap At Farmers Is Election Goof

WASHINGTON (AP)—G. Mennen Williams, Michigan's Democratic senatorial candidate, had a tart comment Friday concerning a statement attributed to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

A reporter observed at a Williams news conference that Freeman was reported to have advised Democratic candidates to "slip, slide and duck" questions about high prices. Williams was asked for his reaction to Freeman's remark.

"If he (Freeman) had kept his mouth shut a couple of months ago about the farmer being the cause of inflation, it would be easier for his friends," Williams said.

However, with respect to high prices Williams said that, compared with the last five years of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration, today's price increases "are not so bad."

Seeks Griffin Seat

Williams seeks the seat now held by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich. The latter was appointed earlier this year by Republican Gov. George Romney after the death of Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich.

At his news conference Williams said he expects Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien to go to Michigan to aid his campaign. He said similar help will come from Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

Williams, in a further comment on current price levels, said:

"Today we are actually living better with higher incomes, buying steaks instead of hamburger. We are enjoying the finer things of life."

Expects Hard Fight

Williams, who served 12 years as governor of Michigan, said he anticipates a hard fight with Griffin, "but at the moment I am ahead, as (the state) is essentially Democratic."

Asked about getting financial aid from the Democratic National Committee and the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, Williams said he had not "found a gold mine" at either.

Williams said he believes that Zolton Ferency, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, will defeat Romney if he gets enough exposure.

By exposure, Williams said, he meant that if Ferency has the opportunity to get in front of enough people by traveling, television, debate and such, he said the Democratic party is "poor" and the problem is to get sufficient television time.

Accent On Youth

DETROIT (AP)—Senator Robert P. Griffin said Friday his "youth and ability" appeal to supporters of defeated U. S. senatorial hopeful Jerome Cavanagh is paying off.

Griffin said he was receiving offers "every day" for help in his November bid for reelection. However, he declined to identify any of the converts immediately. Griffin will face former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who defeated Cavanagh in the Democratic primary Aug. 2.

Griffin bought advertising in newspapers and on radio stations the day after the primary trying to bring supporters of the Detroit mayor into the GOP camp.

By exposure, Williams said, he meant that if Ferency has the opportunity to get in front of enough people by traveling, television, debate and such, he said the Democratic party is "poor" and the problem is to get sufficient television time.

Griffin again challenged Williams to debate but said Williams apparently "hasn't the courage" to accept. Williams said two days ago he would debate if Gov. George Romney would agree to debate Democratic gubernatorial nominee Zolton Ferency.

THE BIG, 15 1/2 INCH Coho salmon pictured here was a 4-6 inch fingerling, about the size of the little fish pictured below, when it was released in Michigan waters about 90 days ago. The big fish weighs 20 ounces. It was taken by commercial fishermen about two miles north of Manistee in Lake Michigan. The Michigan Conservation Department planted the fish to provide sports fishermen a new target. One of the plantings was in the Big Huron River in the Upper Peninsula, flowing into Lake Superior. The Conservation Commission on Friday ordered that Michigan fishermen will be allowed to take Kokanee and Coho salmon this year for the first time under regulations patterned closely after those for trout. Coho will be legal from Sept. 12 through Nov. 30. Some early maturing Coho may return this fall to streams where 800,000 were planted last spring. (AP Wirephoto)

Menominee To Get Fish Meal Factory Soon

MENOMINEE — Establishment of a new industry here to convert the rough fish, shad, into a protein meal for animal feed with a by-product of fish oil is announced by the American Protein Co., set up by investors in Milwaukee and Kansas City.

The plant, which will occupy a portion of the old Superior Sugar property, expects to utilize the shad catch of "from 40 to 60 commercial fishermen in this area." This will not only provide a market for this trash fish but by reducing their ratio (now 90%) in the Great Lakes, should help establish a better balance of game fish.

The start-up date and number of employees were not disclosed.

Camper No. 2,000 Welcomed

Camper No. 2,000 registered at Pioneer Trail Park Campground on Friday to be greeted with smiles, handshakes, and a gift of groceries from six Escanaba food markets.

"This will help us balance our vacation budget," Arnold Adair, Morton Grove, Ill., father of the family of four growing boys told Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Manager Walter Lewke. "We had some tire trouble and we're staying here through the weekend."

Adair is a supervisor employed by the Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria, Ill. He and his wife and sons Jim 8, Dave, 14, Doug 13 and Jeffery 7, are on a two-week camping tour that will take them from Pioneer Trail Park to the Straits and thence south through Lower Michigan and home.

Recognition for camper 2,000 brought from Lewke a report that camper volume at Pioneer Trail is way ahead of last year to this date.

"For all of last year there was only 1,990 camper registrations, and we are now up to 2,000 before mid-August," Lewke pointed out.

The Pioneer Trail Park Campground was established and is operated and maintained by the Delta County Road Commission as a part of the county park system. The fees received provide for supervision and because of the demand there has been a continuing improvement of facilities.

Estimating that each camper registrant represents 3 1/2 persons and estimated 7,000 persons have been accommodated at Pioneer Trail so far this summer, Lewke continued.

"There are conservative estimates that in Michigan campers spend approximately $10 per day per person, which would mean that about $70,000 has been spent in the Escanaba area this summer through the operation of Pioneer Trail Campground," he said.

The total of $10 per camper includes spending for gasoline, oil, food, supplies, souvenirs, meals, entertainment and other items.

Cooperating in the gifts to the Adairs as Campers No. 2,000 were the Miracle Market, Mel & Elmer's Super Valu, Piggy Wiggly of Escanaba, Sav-Mor, A. & P., and the Red Owl store.

New Committee Created

U.P. Health Needs Studied

The Upper Peninsula's lack of attraction for members of the health professions was a dominant note at the meeting of the UPACAP Subcommittee on Community, Public and Mental Health held in Marquette Wednesday. This was the first meeting of the group which was formed recently as a subcommittee of the Human Resources Committee of UPACAP.

The U.P. does not attract persons from other parts of the country very readily, and many young people in the U.P. who plan to enter the health professions do not expect to practice in this area, the committee found. This condition is not peculiar to the health professions and apparently is part of the general pattern of thinking about the U.P., both by people outside the Peninsula and by many young people within the area. This situation has made the recruitment of people in the health professions one of the major U.P. problems in the area of health and mental health.

The committee also indicated that there was still a need — only partly filled as yet — to inform the public on the necessity for public and community health facilities such as water fluoridation treatment, mental health services and alcoholic treatment centers. It was also pointed out that more extensive legislation might be necessary to provide communities with adequate resources to cope with health problems.

The subcommittee agreed that in most areas community organization for health purposes is not adequate to educate the public on needs and to mobilize support for new facilities. The subcommittee is still in the formative stages and expects soon to define its objectives and to draw up a work program.

Present at the meeting were:

Auto Changeover Cuts Employment

Automobile changeover layoffs, some three weeks earlier than normal, and closing of the State's schools for summer vacations caused a reduction in Michigan's employment by 48,500, to 3,111,000 between June 18 and July 18.

Unemployment rose sharply to 166,000 by mid-July, or 4.5 per cent of the labor force. This was 24,000 above the June unemployment figure, and 8,000 above that of July 1965. At this time last year, however, the changeover layoffs were just starting. Duration of the layoff periods will vary greatly.

Selection Complex, Seaborg Says

State May Get A-Plant

By W. H. TRELOAR
 ISHPeming — Michigan is still being considered as a possible site for the 200 Bev Accelerator which the Atomic Energy Commission plans to build. Ann Arbor remains as one of the "candidates" for the project.

Dr. Glenn C. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, visiting in Ishpeming with his wife and their four youngest children, was a surprise guest at an informal gathering Aug. 10. of directors of the Ninth Federal Reserve Bank who were being hosted at the Mather Inn by Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co.

"We anticipate making a decision before the end of the year," Dr. Seaborg said. "There is a great deal of data to be evaluated, and it must be recognized that each of the six sites still under consideration has much to recommend it."

They are rather evenly balanced.

"We are looking for proper physical characteristics. We need adequate foundation which is bedrock, an absence of ground water or easily disposable ground water, good loadbearing qualities of the ground, lack of seismic activities, attractiveness to scientists for such factors as proximity to a university, accessibility, lack of discriminations, and the like.

National Project
 "It should be remembered this is a national not a local project and accessibility will be one of the great considerations. Three fourths of the scientists involved will be traveling to and from home laboratories.

"Then we must consider costs of construction and operation, and we are hopeful of maintaining an operating budget of $80 million a year."

Dr. Seaborg pointed out that some $375 million is expected to be spent in the seven year construction period, and lower costs schedules could well be one of the determining factors.

The sites still being considered, in addition to Ann Arbor, are Brookhaven on Long Island; Chicago, Madison, Denver and Sacramento.

The AEC chairman said that his group is still trying to "pack more wallop" into warheads in the development of anti-ballistic missiles, but slightly more than 50 per cent of the commission's efforts are toward development of peace time uses of nuclear power.

Electric Production
 Dr. Seaborg foresees 100 million kilowatts of electrical energy being developed by nuclear power by 1980 and he told the reserve bankers, in an informal chat that the development in this field is moving faster than had been expected earlier.

He stressed that he referred to this figure as a competitive one, making two qualifications: one, that as of now nuclear energy can be competitive only where 500,000 kilowatts can be created at one plant and, two, that in special areas where oil or coal is extremely plentiful and locally produced, nuclear energy might not be competitive.

He pointed out that history once more is providing a new source of energy for mankind as another shows signs of wearing down. "Not," he said, "that we are at the end of coal or oil, but it is only a matter of decades that these two sources would be hard pressed to maintain the wants of man if consumption were to be continued on an ever-increasing basis.

Uranium Comeback
 Pointing out that one pound of uranium is equal to 1,500 tons of coal in energy production capacity, he said that by the year 2,000 the AEC expects half the electrical energy of the United States to be from nuclear fission. "We have a tremendous role to play in the industrial development of America," he concluded.

Dr. Seaborg sees an upsurge in uranium mining. A few years ago, he pointed out, there was a slowdown in this, but now uranium is needed in quantities that give some concern.

In answer to a question he said thorium would have a definite place in this development. "It is necessary," he stressed, "that we develop more advanced reactors than we now have. Our present reactors produce about 5 per cent of their potential as converters.

Fermi Has Bugs

"We shall need nuclear power for propulsion of men beyond the moon to various planets. I foresee nuclear explosives for creating canals, deepening harbors, aiding mining."

In answer to questions, Dr. Seaborg discussed, in brief, the Enrico Fermi plant at Monroe, Mich., which is being operated chiefly through the leadership of Detroit Edison Co.

"The Fermi plant," he said, will make useful contributions for the development of faster breed reactor technology. It is an experimental plant but its chief service will be as a pioneer in the field.

"In lay language, there are bugs to be worked out, but Fermi will make its contribution, as planned, to the technology we need. The government has about $5 to 10 million for research only invested in this. All the rest is from private capital funds."

Dr. and Mrs. Seaborg are visiting Ishpeming with their four youngest children, David, Stephen, Eric and Dianne. It is their first visit since 1962. Peter, a student at Harvard, and Lynn, a student at Radcliffe, are remaining at the Seaborg Washington home for the summer.

Where's The Compass?

The new Upper Michigan Tourist Association Advisory Committee has one of the most interesting unpaid jobs in the Peninsula and probably one of the most bewildering.

Dr. Clare Gunn, Michigan State University recreation industry specialist, says that of all the three recreational areas of Michigan (Detroit, East Michigan, West Michigan, U.P.) the Upper Peninsula currently has the greatest awareness of the need to move strongly in the development of recreational facilities and recreational resources.

The other areas have more financial means and more recreational business (chiefly because of their proximity to large populations) but they lack the Upper Peninsula's great historicity and natural beauty. And, thinks Dr. Gunn, they lack its growing Gung-ho for organization and development.

The problem, as it unfolds for the UMTA Advisory Committee with study of the possibilities for tourism development, is not lack of means, but indecision over which course to take.

There are opportunities to develop recreational facilities as projects of private business, and as government financed or financially aided projects, and as combinations of government and private venture. What course should the U.P. take? This is one of the basic questions before the Advisory Group.

The answer in this, as in so many other development problems, appears to be a mixture of private and government means. Let each do what it can do best. Let one take up where the other cannot or won't act.

But even if such a decision were made there would still remain several options. The recreational planners for the state think that the U.P. should have some more major visitor attractions.

It already has Mackinac Island, the Sault Ste. Marie Ship Canal, the ski resorts of the western U.P. Iron and copper ranges. It is getting Great Lakes Memorial Marina at Menominee and Quincy Hoist at Hancock. It also needs Gateway Park at St. Ignace, a northern botanical garden or conservatory, a geological museum, a zoo, a showplace sawmill, and more entertainment facilities.

How shall these be provided? Should UMTA take on a new character and add to its familiar function of publicizing and advertising U.P. tourism attractions the function of providing the major new facilities for visitor entertainment? Or should it help the areas of the U.P. which are specially adapted to the creation of these varied attractions create them?

Local pride is a strong creative force. It can muster finances which would be denied to a project proposing to spend them off at a distance for a long-range benefit. And these local attractions would, while benefitting the local economy with a new recreational industry, contribute to a bigger picture of general improvement of the U.P.'s tourism image. They would add up to "The Place To Visit!"

There are so many agencies now involved in this effort that it takes a compass man and a lifetime to find your way among them. The state and federal governments are involved, through several agencies each. The universities are deeply involved and looked to for strong leadership in creation of the new recreation industry and in training of an expert staff for it. The private sector is heavily involved through many trade associations, investment organizations and individual enterprises.

All of this activity creates a power play in which there is a jockeying for position, for credit, for opportunities to expand.

The problem of knitting all these skeins into an effective action program is complex. But it is an exciting challenge because everyone involved feels that he's attending the birth of a great enterprise in a new phase.

The Upper Peninsula is going to change and this effort is going to make it change for the better, to preserve the Peninsula's beauty while making it more available and to make more income from this huge business which is so relatively new—at least in its American proportions—that it still has a somewhat unfamiliar name: The Hospitality Industry.

Finding The Way

A Measure Of Growth

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

How seldom a person really one's mind. To acknowledge a change! It's astonishing to see the rationalization, the little dodges, the excuses that shield us from confronting any radical change or maturing growth. As a matter of fact, all too many people never expect to change.

That happened to Jonathan Jones. He had thought of himself as a kindly, helpful and civilized gentleman. He would have denied the possibility of personal prejudice. Yet Jonathan came face to face with the predicament. He had gone to Israel with a study group. Listening to lectures, visiting in libraries, steeping himself in more than a casual look at a fascinating country, he felt a discomfort that grew daily. It became a climactic situation as he recognized in himself an ancient anti-Semitism that shocked him. At that point, he could have decided to leave the situation unchanged. To have done that would have rationalized a compromise with ideals, a slow alienation from what he had really believed.

Instead Jonathan Jones went through a shattering experience of coming to himself. Re-counting the painful experience later, he could only say that it felt like being born again. He could never be the same again.

Jonathan is a kind of parable for each of us. It's easy to take a "love me or leave me" attitude. It's disturbing to confront a change of residence. It's more difficult to change person-head.

Our Hospitals Aren't 'Sick'

American hospitals are not nearly as sick as they've been pictured recently, says a professor who regularly takes the pulse of the nation's health services.

"Of course there is room for improvement in hospitals, just as in everything else," Lawrence A. Hill says. "But by and large our hospitals are doing a better job now than ever before."

Hill is director of the Bureau of Hospital Administration in the University of Michigan's Graduate School of Business Administration. His comments were inspired by national magazine articles with such titles as "Our Hospitals Are Killing Us" and "Our Sick Hospitals."

"The facts of the matter are that hospitals have been doing a generally good job for some time, and that Medicare will enable them to do a better job rather than a poorer one," Hill says.

He describes the hospital as the only place in the community where the quality of a physician's practice is routinely scrutinized by his colleagues.

"Every patient's clinical record is open for review by a doctor's professional colleagues. Every doctor's credentials are checked before he is admitted to the staff. Inexperienced doctors have only limited hospital privileges. It's not a perfect system, but it's a reasonably effective safeguard for the patient."

"On the other hand, there is no system of quality checking or control on the care a doctor provides in his office or in the patient's home."

Medicare will reinforce the quality control system by requiring participating hospitals to set up "utilization committees," made up of doctors, to pass on questionable admissions or long stays.

Still, Hill concedes, a "quality gap" will remain between the major medical centers and the small-town hospitals.

"The critics insist that every citizen should have equal access to the most modern medical techniques and facilities—and as a social goal that's excellent. But I think every citizen should also have access to trinket air service, to the finest cultural activities, to highly skilled police and fire departments. Why single out medicine? We can't have an open-heart surgery team in every hospital any more than we can have a classic Greek theater in every town. There just aren't enough professionals to keep small-town hospitals busy."

"It's said that top-quality medical care ranks first in people's scale of values. But every day there are patients with unusual illnesses who would rather be in their home-town hospitals, where their families can visit easily, than in a major medical center in Ann Arbor or Detroit.

"It's said that each community wants the best care for its citizens, yet communities will try to outdo each other rather than combine into regional hospital systems where care could be better."

The charge that hospital care is often poor is frequently based on the so-called "classic" study done in 1964 by Columbia University and the Teamsters Union. Experts examined records of 430 patients admitted to 98 New York City hospitals and concluded that 43 per cent were treated poorly.

Hill argues that the survey—covering roughly four patients per hospital—was too small to be conclusive. He cites his bureau's own 1961 study of Michigan hospitals, which covered many more patients, as a better index of quality.

One of the problems, Hill agrees, is the tendency of doctors to cluster in the cities and bypass the rural areas. This can be solved, he believes, "by letting the market take care of distribution."

"If smaller communities, by combining resources, can offer a doctor enough in terms of patients, facilities and money," he says, "it will get the medical care it demands. The long-run answer—not an easy one—is to build more medical schools and produce more doctors. Some of them will have to go to the rural areas to make a living and build a practice."

To Avoid 1964 Replay

By BRUCE BOSSAT
CHICAGO (NEA) — A good many key Republican figures are working more or less quietly to assure that the 1968 GOP national convention will not be a carbon copy of the 1964 convention—with its emphasis on rigid conservatism.

The 1964 nominee, Barry Goldwater, has several times predicted that, in terms of delegate make-up, the next convention would indeed be largely a replay of the one which chose him overwhelmingly at San Francisco.

Inquiries by this reporter here in the Midwest and in the Far West suggest that numerous party professionals want nothing of the kind and will go to considerable lengths to prevent what they regard as a repeat of disaster.

The most striking plans appear to be brewing in Washington state, where attractive Gov. Daniel Evans, a vigorous moderate elected two years ago, already has knocked down the rigid conservatives in sharp confrontations with members of the John Birch Society and other extremist groups.

Evans believes any open battle with these elements can be won. Consequently, he is preparing to undertake further combat to rid several local party organizations of every last vestige of hot-eyed radicalism.

The Washington governor has a meticulous card file which pinpoints the rigid conservatives wherever they are—right down to the precinct level. Within a few months, the pressure to oust them all from party posts will begin in earnest.

The clear intent is to pave the way for the selection in 1968 of a balanced, flexible Washington delegation to the next Republican presidential convention, pre-Evans, was heavily larded with starch, rule-or-ruin conservatives.

In Iowa, whose delegation went for Goldwater by just 14 to 10, the rigid types are not as severe a problem. But, says a party official, "there will be some informal attention paid to this matter after the 1968 elections are behind us."

Efforts there probably will be limited mostly to two or three congressional districts where the most militant elements showed themselves in time.

White seems to be at distinct odds with his old boss on this point, and on the further contention that a surprisingly large number of Goldwater delegates, like the handful mentioned in Illinois, simply will not try again.

Some lost their taste for politics when their hero plunged to defeat in 1964. Some do not occupy the kind of party position demanded as a prelude to delegate status in their states. Some found convention duty aggravating and uncomfortable. A California woman, remembering long hours sitting jammed between two fat men, hours unsustained by food, says vehemently: "Never again!"

White says, therefore, that it may be quite misleading this time to rely on the old percentage figure for "repeat delegates"—usually 45 to 50 per cent of the total. The proportion of newcomers may be very high, possibly higher than the 60 to 65 per cent who went to California mostly to shout "aye" for Goldwater the last

Friends Wonder Who Is Kissinger Now?

Dear Ann Landers: You had a letter in your column recently from a lady who claimed she could tell all about a person by hearing his first name (Frank is sexy, Esther is stupid and cow-like, Albert is a jerk, etc.). Your readers might like to know there is a magazine called "Mother To Be And Infant Care" which offers a list of "neuter" names for the expectant mother who wants to settle on the baby's name before birth.

Some suggested names: Kimberly, Duncan, Cabot, Brooke, Tracey, Noland, Trevor, Udine, Wright, Vaughn and Bailey. Aren't they dillies? Sign me—DECISIONS! DECISIONS!

Dear Decisions: I don't mean to knock the magazine but all those names sound like family names to me. I've always liked the idea of using a family name as a first name, but unless the last name goes with it—forget it.

No kid should be saddled with a handle like Noland Letkovitch or Trevor Peppolopoulos.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column on names brought to my mind a true story. Maybe you'd like to share it with your readers.

Dear Paul: Now there's a knee-slapper if I ever heard one!! Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I just celebrated our fourth wedding anniversary. I should say I celebrated it by walking a sick child all night. My husband was away on a fishing trip with his brother. Andy and I are both 22. I look like 40 and feel like 90. Nothing bothers Andy. He buys what ever he wants for himself and if the bills have to wait he couldn't care less. I haven't had a new dress since we were married. I have been pregnant four times in the past four years. (I miscarried twice and we have two children.) My husband says I don't need any clothes because I don't go any place and he is right about that.

What can I do to get him to treat me like a wife and companion instead of a baby machine? —GALLONS OF COFFEE

Dear Gal: According to my arithmetic you grabbed the bargain when he was 18 years old. No wonder you are having trouble. He wasn't ready to settle down—and he still isn't. (Are you listening, students?) Inlet that he go to a marriage counselor. If he refuses, go yourself and get some help. You need outside guidance.

Confidential to Herman The Heel: There is no way to get out of this "gracefully"—but you can get out of it. And you should. You do not belong at that function and you were unwise to agree to go.

Rock 4-H'er Strives To Attain New Record

Always trying to beat her own record of the year before, Nancy Weldum, 16, a Rock 4-H'er, has increased the number of poultry entries each year at the U.P. State Fair in Escanaba, to where she hopes to be top exhibitor this year with about 170 individual entries.

Last year, with 139 entries, the superintendent of the poultry department said she was close to having the most exhibits by an individual in poultry.

Her first entry was a goose and a gander when she was ten years old and had just joined 4-H. She got a blue ribbon on the gander. Last year her entries brought her 64 blue, 26 red, 20 white and 2 purple ribbons.

This year her entries will include Toulouse and African geese, Pearl and White guineas, turkeys, ducks, and a large assortment of bantam and big chickens, young and old. She did not lose a single chick from her order of 52 large chicks this spring. However, Stromberg's Hatchery, where she formerly bought her unusual assortment of goslings, duckling and turkey poults, went out of business last summer, so her exhibits are cut down in this department.

Having such a variety of chickens, one gets an assortment of colors and sizes in eggs. The Araucana chicken lays colored eggs. The hen Nancy has, lays pale green shelled eggs. These cannot be sold because the law states, no colored eggs may be sold. Yet, information on poultry states they colored eggs are very beautiful.

Some of the leading softball teams in the Upper Peninsula will be seen here next week when Escanaba hosts the U. P. Class B championship tournament starting Aug. 18. Included among the 12 teams will be Bero Motors and Flat Rock of the Escanaba American League. A bargain for fans will be a special tournament ticket for $2, available at the gate, that will be good for all games in the four day, double elimination tournament.

Pine Grove Country Club in Iron Mountain produced its second hole in one within four days when Charles Larson of Menominee aced the 180 yard No. 7 hole with a 4-iron. Russell DeMay of Kingsford turned in the earlier hole in one on the No. 17 hole and two other golfers have shot aces at the course this season.

Dave (Whitey) Horka, who has four no-hitters to his credit this season, scattered six hits and drove in the winning run as his Soo Merchants defeated Northview Lounge, 3-2, in eight innings this week. The triumph was the third straight for the Merchants in their best-of-seven series against Northview.

Couples, officials and fans of the area will attend a football rules meeting at Escanaba High School Friday, Aug. 26, conducted by the Michigan High School Athletic Association. Rules changes and points of emphasis will be discussed. The meeting will be held in Room C 105, starting at 8 p. m.

Proving that you don't have to play golf for years in order to score a hole in one, John Simon of Marinette registered an ace on the 125 yard No. 17 hole at the Little River Country Club recently. Simon took up the sport for the first time this season. In the foursome were Neil Payton, Mac McDurdie and Jim Reel.

Fred Steele of Marquette has been elected to the board of directors of the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association. Steele, president of the Marquette Junior Hockey Association, attended the recent annual meeting of the state association along with Bob Brumm, Les Pelto and Mike Greenleaf, all active in the Marquette junior puck program.

This season's Escanaba and Holy Name high school football schedules contain a couple of unique games. Escanaba's game at Menominee Saturday night, Sept. 10, will begin at 6 p. m. instead of the usual 8 o'clock starting time. The change was made at Menominee's request to avoid competition with a national television showing of a Packers game. And Holy Name has scheduled its game with Marquette Bishop Baraga for Sunday, Sept. 25, at 3 p. m., because the EHS field is being used by the Eskymos the previous afternoon.

The field is this year's Michigan-Wisconsin Tennis Open here this weekend is one of the best in many seasons. Included are such defending champions as Bob Erickson of Menasha in the men's singles, Pat Conway of Menasha in the intermediate boys, Steve Houle of Escanaba in the junior boys, Diane Sjostad of Gladstone in the intermediate girls, Gary Friestrom-Mark Simeoni of Crystal Falls in the boys doubles and Tom Fisher-Jim Pyros of Detroit in the men's doubles.

Three former Upper Peninsula athletes are among the 66 varsity football candidates invited by Coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State's fall football practice sessions which start Sept. 1. Included are lettermen Bob Brawley, a linebacker from Sault Ste. Marie, fullback Dick Berlinski and tackle Dwight Romagnoli of Kingsford, both sophomores.

Bears Tame Packers, 13-10

Somebody Forgot About Watching Joe Marconi

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Master heliava job making it easier for mentor Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers, may have found a way to stop Chicago's one touchdown and score another. Now all Lombardi has to do is figure out how to stop Joe Marconi.

Sayers was held to only two yards rushing in the first half of Friday night's 13-10 Bear exhibition victory over the National Football League champions.

But in the second half, Sayers' pass defense on Marconi in the began finding daylight thanks to second half. "I'm not going to say who it was," Lombardi said.

"They were keying on me in the first half," Marconi said. "But what happened may have been what Coach George Halas of the Bears predicted would happen this season as opposing teams try to stop Sayers."

"They'll rig special defenses for him. What we are working on is aimed at taking advantage of those special defenses. When you concentrate too much on one man, you leave yourself more vulnerable," Halas said earlier this week.

Down 3-0 at halftime and able to bring the ball into Green Bay territory for only two plays in the first 20 minutes, the Bears caught fire after intermission. They scored on a Bukich-to-Marconi pass and a 17-yard run by Sayers.

The Packers, who played the second half without veteran mainstay Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor at running backs, came back on the passes of Zeke Bratkowski for a touchdown with 1:48 left to play.

The Buffalo Bills crushed the Denver Broncos 25-3 and the Kansas City Chiefs walloped the Miami Dolphins 33-0 in two other exhibitions Friday night.

A 74-yard touchdown run by Butch Byrd and four field goals by Booth Lustig sparked the AFL champion Bills over Denver before 28,144 at Buffalo. A Miami turnover of 34,277 saw the Dolphins outlasted by Kansas City. Len Dawson fired a 15-yard TD pass to Chris Burford in the first period for all the scoring the Chiefs needed.

Members of the Region 1 team were Walker, captain, Opolka, St. Onge, Lafayette, Charles Bowen, Ensign, Tom Safford, Garden, and Albert Latasewicz. Missing The Upper Peninsula shooters scored 1,787 points to 1,807 for the winning Region 3 team from metropolitan areas of Lower Michigan. Region 2 was last with a score of 1,608.

The Upper Peninsula team will shoot Aug. 16 in competition at the U.P. State Fair at Escanaba.

Rapid River will face Bonet's of Felch at 4 this afternoon, 1966.

Trenary, Escanaba district champ, was eliminated by Crystal Falls Westwood Hiawatha, 8-3, and Perkins lost to Marquette Music Manor, 15-4.

Esky Cubs Upset Favored Adrian

OWOSSO — The Esky Cubs rallied for three runs in the last of the ninth to stun tournament favorite Adrian, 7-6, in American Legion baseball action here Friday.

Adrian carried an imposing 28-1 record into the game after a 5-4 decision over Manistee in an opening round morning contest.

Clutch hitting Tom Brawley delivered the key blow for the Upper Peninsula champions in the final frame. His line drive to left center drove home Rick Kuchenberg and Ed Gauthier with the tying and winning runs. Tom Boyle, running for John Way, had scored earlier in the inning on Kuchenberg's single.

Jim Boyle opened on the Escanaba mound and worked the first seven innings. Roger Wood came on in relief in the eighth and blanked Adrian in the final two innings.

Escanaba matched Adrian's pair of runs in the third inning to open scoring but the downstate team opened a 6-2 margin before the Cubs tallied a singleton in the last of the seventh. Escanaba scored again in the eighth to make it 6-4, setting the stage for the hectic action in the ninth.

Brawley's deciding hit came with two out. Gauthier slid home scant inches ahead of the relay to the plate with the winning run.

Both teams rapped 12 hits in the game with Kuchenberg stroking three for Escanaba and Gauthier and Brawley two each. In other games Friday St. Clair was eliminated by losing to Hamtramck, 5-2, and Manistee, 6-3.

Escanaba was back in action this morning against Manistee and will play Hamtramck this afternoon. If the Cubs win one of their games today they will go into the finals Sunday.

BATTING—Bob Bailey, Pittsburgh, and Art Shamsky, Cincinnati, each drove in five runs. Bailey with two homers and a double. Shamsky with three homers in three at-bats, as the Pirates outslugged Cincinnati 14-11 in 13 innings.

PITCHING — Gaylord Perry, San Francisco, pitched a three-hitter for his 18th victory against two defeats in the Giants' 1-0 triumph over Houston.

Thirteen Lucky Boston Number, Not For Tigers

BOSTON (AP)—Thirteen is a lucky number for the Boston Red Sox—but not for the Detroit Tigers.

For the second straight night, the Sox scored 13 runs in a ballgame, beating the Tigers 13-9 Friday night.

Boston beat Cleveland 13-3 Thursday night.

Carl Yastrzemski, Boston outfielder, lined four straight hits, scored three runs and drove in a pair.

Yastrzemski had three singles and a double before being called out on strikes while facing left-hander Mickey Lolich in the seventh inning. Lolich was the fifth Detroit pitcher.

The Red Sox scored in every inning except the fourth, posting their fifth triumph in six games.

Don Wert led the Tigers' attack with a pair of doubles and a pair of singles. Jim Northrup had two doubles and a single.

Bill Monbouquette had a 5-3 deficit when he left the mound after four innings. Fred Gladding, Dave Wickersham, Orlando Pena and Lolich followed him as pitchers.

Detroit tied the game 2-2 in the third inning when things were still in hand.

But an error by Norm Cash started Boston on its way to a three-run third inning. Cash was hit by a pitch. The Sox scored on a single by Yastrzemski and a double by Northrup.

The Upper Peninsula placed five men on the 12-man department of Conservation pistol team that will compete in Jackson next month in statewide police agency competition for the Governor's and Fletcher trophies.

Named to the team were officers Frank Opolka and Jim Walker of the Escanaba district; Willard St. Onge, Chatham; Ellis Barber, Laurium; and Wesley Lafayette, Stephenson.

The Upper Peninsula (Region 1) team finished second in the Conservation Department pistol shoot on the 25-yard range at Camp Perry, Higgins Lake, Thursday. Opolka was second in the individual competition with a score of 271 of 300.

Members of the Region 1 team were Walker, captain, Opolka, St. Onge, Lafayette, Charles Bowen, Ensign, Tom Safford, Garden, and Albert Latasewicz. Missing The Upper Peninsula shooters scored 1,787 points to 1,807 for the winning Region 3 team from metropolitan areas of Lower Michigan. Region 2 was last with a score of 1,608.

The Upper Peninsula team will shoot Aug. 16 in competition at the U.P. State Fair at Escanaba.

goofed again in the sixth inning. The errors by Cash were identical. Dalton Jaones reached second when Cash let his ball go through.

Unfortunately for Detroit, ex-Tigers weren't as nice to their old teammates as ex-Red Sox Monbouquette was to Boston. Former Tigers Don Demeter and George Smith each had two hits. Demeter singled in the fifth and sixth and Smith doubled in the fifth and singled in the eighth.

Every Red Sox starter except the pitcher hit safely. Bill Tilden had a homer and two singles. George Scott had a pair of run-producing singles and a sacrifice fly.

Boston had four sacrifice flies, one short of the major league record set by the Chicago White Sox in 1924.

Today the Tigers were set to try to make up for the loss in an afternoon game against the Sox. Earl Wilson (12-9) was scheduled for mound duty. Sunday the Red Sox will entertain Detroit in a doubleheader.

Junior League recreation baseball action will end with an all-star game Monday at Royce Park. The Mets captured the Junior League championship with victories over the Tigers and the Yankees in the final week of games, while in the Beginners League St. Joe clinched the championship by downing St. Paul's 5 to 1.

Junior League softball will end with a single elimination tournament beginning Monday morning at 9. All teams of the Junior Softball League are asked to report to Leamer Field at this time.

Exploring The Reasons Why

Fly Casters Are Fanatics

BY LEE SMITS

Why is a fly-fisherman so fanatically addicted to his sport? One reason that suggests itself is that the fly-caster is continuously in action, exercising knowledge and skill. Another, most of the time he is enjoying a constant change of scene. Around the bend there may be a deer, a great blue heron, even an otter. Also, if he is a far-gone addict the fly-caster knows the satisfactions of a creative artist, tying flies. He may even make a rod.

It is the fly-fisherman who advocates fun-fishing instead of frying-pan fishing, and for that reason he has sometimes been pictured as an enemy of the barefoot boy with a can of worms.

A fly-fisherman, Keith Davis of Flint was asked to give his views on "flies only." He says: "It is the only possible solution to the problem of increasing pressure on our streams; fly-fishing for wild trout is so delightful that one is satisfied with a few. For some years now I have been keeping just two each time I fish, putting the rest back. Truly, one smart brown trout in the creel is more satisfying than 10 dumb ones."

DAVIS THEN composed a sketch of a trout stream encounter with a fellow fly-fisherman. Here it is:

"He was sitting on the bank with his feet in the water as I came down the river. I had been dropping a size 16 female Adams in likely spots, with a twelve foot 5x leader, because the sun was bright and the water low and clear. The bridge was just down around the next bend and my car was waiting for me there, so I walked over and sat down beside him to exchange notes."

"Kind of fussy fishing today," he observed.

"Right."

"I recognized him, although it had been something better than 12 years since we had previously met, in the same spot. He was not a man you would easily forget, if you were a trout fisherman. In a third of a century of fishing for trout on Michigan streams I have seen hundreds of average good fly-casters, a score of exceptional ones and just three that I considered to be past masters. He was one of the three."

"TO CHECK my identification of him I asked: 'Do you still get a couple of trout out of that feeding riffle over there?'"

"He looked at me with some surprise."

"You told me yourself right here, quite a few years back. You told me to use a long leader and put a curve in the cast so they see your fly first."

Tourism Meet Being Planned

BY JACK ENGLISH

Ski area operators of the Upper Peninsula met informally last week with Ken Dorman, Upper Peninsula Tourist Association manager, at Indianhead Mountain Lodge, Wakefield.

One purpose of the meeting was to coordinate the advertising program of the ski areas with the expenditures of the UPMAC funds for winter promotion. We decided that the majority of funds would be spent on an improved tourist booth at ski shows and to include not only a central booth but individual booths for each ski area. This was done last year but it was felt that improvements were needed both on the booth and on the image of the Upper Peninsula ski areas being projected.

The rest of the money allocated for advertising is to be spent on six large ads in a metropolitan newspaper. Ski areas will place their own ads adjacent to the Upper Peninsula ads to achieve mass effect.

After the meeting Dorman, Orrin Gruetzmacher, and I studied the entire winter-summer advertising program. We concluded that to achieve increased support of Upper Peninsula business it would be imperative to animate better communication among UMTA, resort operators, chambers of commerce, government bodies, and organizations.

I am planning a recreational news service and will welcome contributions addressed to: Indianhead Mountain Lodge, Box 86, Bessener, Mich.

How is the tourist business this summer? To get part of the picture, I called Will Hardy, News Bureau director of the Michigan Highway Department. We found that the Upper Peninsula had a 30 per cent increase in travel in 1966 over the same first seven months of 1965. Statistics were gathered from the Ironwood, Menominee, and Soo tourist information stations.

Jack English

The western half of the Upper Peninsula had an increase in tourist inquiries of 13.1 per cent, over June of 1965 and an increase in traffic count of 13.2 per cent.

The eastern half of the U.P. had an increase of 1.1 per cent in tourist inquiries and an increase of 8.1 per cent in traffic count.

A new program for tourist expansion in the Upper Peninsula will be presented to Upper Peninsula Tourist Association at the annual meeting in October at Indianhead. This program is being developed by a special study committee.

"I'll be darned. Yes, it must have been quite a few years ago, because I didn't fish here for quite a while. It was going down hill here and I quit this stretch. I just started here again in '63."

"Like it better now?"

"Cripes yes, don't you?"

"I certainly do, but I wanted to hear what you'd say."

"He had not struck me as a gabby character, but apparently this turned a key."

"I TELL YOU, the object in fishing a trout stream is not to fill your basket with seven or eight-inch fish that grew up in a hatchery and haven't learned sense. I'll take one wild trout that was born and grew up in this river over bagful of planters. A wild trout is beautiful and smart and gamy. When they raised the size limit to 10 inches here and cut down the take to five a day it made sure that the river would always have natural reproduction, because enough live to maturity to spawn. Look here —"

"He opened his creel and spilled out two browns. One was 11 inches long and one 14. Both had been cleaned."

"Two is all I ever keep. I put four back this morning, all around this size and lost three more with the hook pulling out. But just look at that pink meat, and see that coloring. I tell you, when you fool one of those babies you've done something."

"Here he stopped and a slow grin spread over his face."

"Well, now you know how I feel about it."

"Yes, I said 'I do, and I feel exactly the same way.'"

Probably there never was a writer who could put all of the fascination of fly-fishing into words. To get the Keith Davis message you have to read between the lines, and it would help if you know the sights, sounds and scents of a wild stream.

Now, perhaps, the bait-fisherman will let us have his version of the story.

Six In GI For Brother's Rites

DETROIT (AP)—Six brothers and a sister wore uniforms Friday for a procession—a funeral procession.

Their brother, one of 21 children of Harry J. Hubbard, died July 19 while fighting in Viet Nam.

Army Sgt. Meredith Hubbard, 29, was the ninth son to die. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Hubbard, died in 1951. Of the 12 surviving children, four married sisters live in Detroit, one brother is serving with the armed forces in Germany and another is stationed in California. Five boys and a girl who have been discharged from the service wore uniforms Friday.

The California brother could not get leave to attend the funeral.

Sgt. Hubbard dropped out of Northern High School at 17 to join the Marines. After serving with them, he enlisted in the Army.

"Meredith was the quiet one," said his father. "He found a place for himself in the service."

Sgt. Hubbard's body was shipped to San Francisco before it was learned that his wife, Kwea Toe, lived in Korea. The body was then shipped to her, but she agreed to have Hubbard buried with his mother and brothers. Kwea Toe and a son, Dan, four, remained in Korea.

One of Hubbard's brothers, Army Spec. 4 Clinton Hubbard, 23, is on convalescent leave. He was injured in a helicopter crash in Viet Nam the day after his brother's death.

Sgt. Hubbard was accorded full military honors.
